Washington County is strategically located in Pennsylvania and provides easy access to the heart of Southwestern Pennsylvania. As one of the region's most vibrant counties, Washington County connects our independent heritage and growing economy to create exceptional employment, education, recreation, and entertainment opportunities for all – while still offering a strong sense of community, an enticing cost of living, and extraordinary quality of life.

Washington County's economic foundations remain strong. Energy leads the way, but we have a robust and diverse economy by design. From innovative and international brands like Corelle, Pyrex, and All-Clad; to advanced manufacturing, from global headquarters to start-ups and everything in between, Washington County is home to a wide variety of vital industries. The rural expanses that have been a hallmark of our county's live-work-play philosophy are now even more relevant as remote working and flexible office schedules fit perfectly into our existing assets. In Washington County, our residents and businesses have both the space to expand and the infrastructure to connect-virtually and physically-with the civic and recreational amenities of our county.

Travelling by highway, river, rail, air, or trail - our modern transportation infrastructure makes connecting easy and convenient. Regardless of whether you are visiting from out-of-town or a lifelong resident looking to access recreational opportunities, the beauty of Washington County is just a short trip away.

Some counties might also offer an attractive cost of living, others may have similarly strong employment opportunities, and still others might be known for unique recreational options; however, very few counties can offer all the above like Washington County. We are always proud and excited to talk about the exceptional benefits found in our county.

There is so much to discover and explore, I invite you to visit and experience all that Washington County has to offer. As we like to say, The American Spirit Lives Here and we welcome you to share it with us.
